If you decide to include a copyright notice in your thesis, it should be placed on a separate Copyright Page. According to the seminary’s Format Guidelines, the Copyright Page should follow the title page of your thesis. In other words, Turabian’s instructions for the order of these pages should not be followed, but for the format of the Copyright Page, Turabian should be followed (2013, 376, 379). This notice legally establishes your copyright.

For additional information on copyright law, please see the UMI Copyright Guide. Printed copies of this guide are available at the library front desk. You may also consult the discussion of fair use in the Chicago Manual of Style 2010, 188–91.

If you have questions about this element of your thesis, please email ctw@wts.edu.

Please see the next page for a sample of this element.
